CZAR TELLS BOMPARD TO GET PEACE TERMS

French Minister to St. Petersburg Hastens
Back to Russian Capitol From Paris, Supposedly to Undertake the Task of Bringing About Action by the Powers Looking to End
of War.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—8:15 p. m.—After the passage of many lagrains last night between the French foreign office and the French mbassy here, M. Bompard, the French ambassador, is returning hastily St. Petersburg from Paris, at the request of Russia, it is said, to arrange peace negotiations, France having agreed if Japan's terms are too severe, to undertake to form a concert of the powers to demand mediation.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—The first rough estimates of the losses sustained by Russians in the battle of the Sea of Japan show that, exclusive of nearly 4000 prisoners now held by the Japanese, upwards of 7000 Russians are still unaccounted for and it is believed that the great majority of them perished, though it is possible that a small per cent were picked up by the escaping Russian ships and may eventually reach Vladivostok.

Among the official list of dead is Rear-Admiral Voelkeram, commander of the cruiser squadron, who was killed the first day of the battle while standing in the turret of the battleship Orel, which was sunk.

According to a report from Nagasaki today the condition of Admiral Rojestvensky serious and but little hope is entertained for his recovery.

It is announced at the Admiralty today that the cruiser Isurumud has arrived at Livestok. According to the latest Japanese reports, the Isurumud was one of the vessels surrounded by the Japanese ships near the Liancourt Rocks.

The word of the day from Tsariko-Selo is that the Emperor will not consent to
under the present conditions.

With every ear to the ground for tidings of the council at the Czar's Palace between the members of the Romanoff family and the Ministers, it is next to impossible to learn anything definite. All present at the conference yesterday observe the most reticence officially, yet many of them, speaking unofficially, say that the Czar will not consider peace following such a defeat as Tsu Island.

The conference is still on today, but definite action is scarcely expected to result for several days.

It is rumored that as a compromise with the people the war will be continued until the National Assembly convened so as to give the masses a nominal voice in the conduct of the war.

JAPAN UNWILLING TO TAKE RUSSIAN WORD

Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Japanese government has intimated to President Taft that whatever peace negotiations are undertaken must be entered into
on the understanding that the powers of the league will be called on to furnish a guarantee that Russia's occupation of Manchuria will be permanent.

No simple promise to that effect will be made, say the Japanese, as all of Russia's previous promises were broken,
and the honor of the Empire was slandered.

Japan is ready to discuss with Russia
any other point involved in a settlement
of their troubles, and even to make concessions and liberal terms, but on the great
final point there can be no discussion.
Russia must get out of Manchuria entirely and forever. It was to that end that Japan went to war and the war will not stop until the end has been reached.

If Russia should be torn to pieces by
the internal troubles that are every day
growing more serious in their aspect, each of the powers would wish to be free to act for itself. Any agreement in the form of a guarantee would restrict the activity
of the individual powers and complicate matters.

Mr. Roosevelt is hopeful, however,
that peace soon will be restored through
the mutual friendship of United States.
Ambassador Meyer, at St. Petersburg, has been instructed to suggest to Russia, at an auspicious moment, that if Russia wishes it this country will be very glad to assist her in any way in opening negotiations directly with Japan. Mr. Meyer is expected to make this proposal within a few days, and he has been directed to report promptly and fully.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador,
will visit President Roosevelt in a few days. Count Cassini admitted that he will discuss the general situation with the President, but again declared that Russia
will not consider peace after such a defeat as she has just suffered.

ZIG ZAG CHASE IN DOWNTOWN STREETS

Crowd of 300 Pursuing Alleged Thief Twenty Blocks Has Game of Dodge.

A crowd that increased from one man who had lost $10 to 300 men and boys took part in a thief-chase through downtown streets Thursday morning.

F. J. Foster, forist, 537 Olive street, seeing August G. Nebright, a former employe,
at Pine and Fourteenth streets about 7:30
a. m., recalled the fact, he says, that Neb-right had never returned with $10.00 for which he had sent him last summer. He started after Nebright, who ran. Detective Dannaher joined in the chase and Neb-right fled. Pursuers ran east on Pine to Thirteenth street, turned south to the first alley and then west.

There Foster caught Nebright, and was bringing him forth in triumph when he jerked loose and started west again, in the alley. His pursuers were close behind.

Each time a street was crossed more men joined in the chase.

At Twenty-first street the crowd was not less than 100.

At Twenty-first street Nebright ran into the yards of the St. Louis Dairy Co.'s plant and employees of that concern joined in the fun. He escaped to Pine street and started back east.

Nobody tried to stop him from front,
but joined the crowd after he was past.

At Fourteenth street he turned south, running to Market, then east to Center street.

Through City Hall.

Turning south on Center he ran half a square, then across a vacant lot and around
a house in the next lot, coming out on Thirteenth street, opposite City Hall.

Nebright ran across the lawn of City
Hall, and being out of sight of his pursuers
for a brief space, dodged into the next lot,
behind the house Nebright ran and then
into the open door of a small shed.

Here he again turned south and the chase was again merrily on.

Across the lawn to Clark avenue ran Neb-
right and west on that avenue.

Between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets,
with the crowd closer behind than ever before, he ran through the yard and into the residence of a family on the north side of the street.

Behind him, adding to the fright of the inmates, came Foster and a dozen others.
Nebright ran through the house and then
into the open door of a small shed.

There was no escape from the shed and he was captured.

Not until Foster, Detective Dannaher and their prisoner came out at the front of the premises did the crowd learn why they had been running themselves to death. The fugitive was Nebright, who they found the man was wanted for an alleged theft of $10.

Nebright was locked up at the Central Station charged with embezzlement by bail.

PLEASANT DAYS TO CONTINUE

Just because it's the first June day of 1905 the weather bureau put on an extra spurt and managed to produce a promise of weather calculated

to suit the most exacting taste.

Here it is as given
out in the official
forecast:

"Fair tonight and Friday. A light temperature. Light to fresh variable
winds."

Fair weather prevails nearly all over the West. A rising
temperature is reported from the West and Northwest. Over the central portion of the country and a high
barometrical pressure prevails.

The river, which has been rising slowly
during the past week, began to decline yesterday. The fall is expected to continue.

GIRL IN STUPOR FOR FIVE DAYS

Physicians Unable to Say What Caused Blanche Miller's Senses to Leave Her.

Consciousness returned to Miss Blanche
Miller Thursday morning after she had remained in a stupor since last Saturday afternoon. Physicians were unable to determine what caused the departure of Miss Miller's senses, and now that they have been restored the reason is still not apparent.

Miss Miller was on her way home from the residence of her sister, Mrs. E. H.
Avery, wife of the cashier of the Waterman Oil Co., at 621 Clinton avenue. She lives with her mother, Mrs. J. C. Culbert, at 4210 Lucky street.

Miss Miller left her sister's home at a little past 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was a little after 6 when she entered the home of her mother.

When she stood before her mother there was no look of recognition in her eyes, and when spoken to she made no response.

Almost immediately she swooned away,
and was carried to a bed. Dr. Isaac H.
Bird of 4126 Easton avenue, was called.
It was thought that Miss Miller had met with an accident. The doctor could find no evidence. He gave it as his opinion that she had seen something that gave her a great mental shock, but his patient was unable to verify his diagnosis.

Several times in her delirium Miss Miller
was heard to murmur in a voice that expressed great fear:

"Ah, it's coming now," and she would shudder as if some great danger threatened her.

At other times she was heard to say:

"He hurt me so when he caught me."

Mr. Avery, her brother-in-law, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he could account for the case only in one way.

"I think that perhaps when she was passing over the Washburn crossing," he said,
"on Sarah street, that she must have seen
a train approaching, and, becoming frightened, received the shock that produced the result."

Rupture of Blood Vessel.

Dr. Bird, when he examined her, said that there was no external injury. He said there was a rupture of a blood vessel
in the brain, brought about, he said, doubtless by some sudden fright.

"I have no means of knowing if this be true, but I know that she was aware of the fact that a number of persons were killed at this crossing during the World's Fair, and from the remarks that she made while delirious I suspect that she was in the car and saw the train coming. And when someone caught her as she arose to jump from the car this person must have caught her and hurt her."

This is all surmise on my part, though.
How the girl got to her home that Saturday afternoon I do not know. Thursday morning the doctors said that consciousness was returning and that in a few days
she would be well physically and mentally.

GETS ONE YEAR FOR HIS THREATS

Charles W. Burns, Who Admitted
Attempting to Blackmail Ministers, Is Sentenced.

Charles W. Burns, alias John Roberts,
pleaded guilty to the charge of fraudulently
using the mails and was sentenced to one year and one day in the Penitentiary
in United States District Court Thursday.

Burns admitted attempting to blackmail
several St. Louis ministers. He sent them
letters, intimating that he had knowledge
of them that were best kept secret and asking $50 to enable him to leave the city. It had been in the city but a short time and conducted a confectionery store at 110
Easton avenue.

When first arrested Burns said that the letters had been sent out by some stranger
to whom he had given permission to have mail left at his store.

THOUSANDS SEE GLASS COMPANY'S SHOP IN FLAMES

Straw Used in Packing and Wooden Shipping Boxes Made Spectacular Fire—Lively Work for the Fire Department.

About 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon a fire was discovered in the sheds and yard at 1122 St. Charles street, used by the Pittsburg Glass Co., as a storage place for much valuable stock. In a few moments, owing to the inflammable nature of the material, the fire had assumed formidable proportions.

The great quantities of straw used in the packing of glass, as well as the hundreds of big shipping boxes and the frame sheds
themselves in which much of the material
was stored, made a fire of exceptional fierceness and attracted a crowd of thousands of spectators.

The fire department arrived on the scene
a few minutes after the flames were discovered and streams from four lines of hoses were at once played on the flames.

By this time great volumes of smoke were ascending to a height of fully 300 feet, and the spectacle presented by this vast volume of smoke, with the fire playing beneath, was decidedly thrilling.

The danger to surrounding buildings was great at first. The fire was almost in the very heart of the downtown Washington avenue business district, and many great business buildings were in close proximity.

Among these were the Drey & Kahn Glass
Co., the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., the Pittsburg Glass Co., Harris Brothers, the Rothschild Hat Co., and other establishments of much importance.

The yards in which the flames were roaring were visible from all points of the compass and the windows of the tall buildings surrounding the scene were filled with spectators, many persons also ascending to the roofs to get a better view of the spectacle. The street itself was filled with spectators, several thousand persons having massed in the neighborhood before the engines arrived on the scene.

For some little time the establishment of David Moffatt & Co., leather merchants,
immediately adjoining the burning sheds
on the west, was in great danger, but the four engines first to arrive on the scene
kept the fire under control, eliminating all danger to adjacent buildings.

The sheds in which the fire originated
were rented by the Pittsburg Glass Co.,
which at the time of the fire had stored
there 30 cases of rough glass valued at $100 and a large quantity of packing material, straw, etc., and hundreds of packing boxes.

The origin of the fire is not known. The damage to the comparatively new shed, including only the value of the glass and the inexpensive material and frame sheds,
was done.

The damage to the frame buildings,
which were owned by the Lambert estate,
was comparatively small.

At one time the fire spread to the carpenter shop of a man named Sparks, at 112 St. Charles, and to the horseshoeing shop of Joseph Lynch, 114 St. Charles.
Both were extinguished before much damage
was done.

tion of President Roosevelt to call, will not

STATE TO NAME TEMPORARY CASHIER FOR LEWIS' BANK

President of $2,500,000 Mail Order Institution
Proposes Such Course Pending Investigation—Conference With Secretary Swanger
and Others On to Determine Further Course
of Action—Other Bankers Expected Are Not

CITED TO SHOW WHY FRAUD ORDER SHOULD NOT ISSUE

Postoffice Inspectors, in Asking That It Be Granted, in Their Report Set Forth How Lewis Issued Stock to Himself, Drew Thousands of Dollars of Salary Before the Bank
Was Ever Incorporated.

LEWIS' STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS AND DISPOSITION OF BANK'S FUNDS

Following is E. G. Lewis' statement in interviews of the receipts and disposition of funds of the People's United States Bank:

MONEY RECEIVED.
From sale of stock:	$2,500,000
From depositors:	350,000
Total:	$2,850,000
DISPOSITION OF MONEY.
In St. Louis banks:	$2,000,000
Loaned to Lewis and invested in bank stock:	411,000
Invested in Government bonds:	75,000
Expenses, including promotion:	144,000
Total:	$2,630,000
Deposits in banks in other cities to protect certified checks:	amount unnamed

President E. G. Lewis of the $2,500,000
People's United States Bank, today proposed to Secretary of State Swanger and State Bank Inspectors that they name a temporary cashier to look after the finances of the bank until the investigation is concluded by the State Department.

This proposition was made by Lewis at a conference with the state officials at the Southern Hotel, beginning at 12:15 p. m.
today.

Mr. Swanger's intention in the matter
has not yet become known.

The conference had been arranged for 11
a. m., but at 11:30 E. A. P. Haynes, acting for Lewis, called at the hotel and told Secretary of State Swanger that the certain bankers who were expected to be present
could not attend and it was feared that the meeting would not go through.

At noon Lewis himself arrived and met Swanger and Cook in the lobby. They proceeded to Swanger's room.

While waiting for Lewis Swanger was asked regarding the exact amount of money
that had been received by President Lewis from subscribers. He said he could not tell at the present time. He said, also, in reply to questions, that he could not tell the exact number of stockholders in the People's United States Bank, nor where
the funds of the institution are located now.

It would seem by the requirements laid down for President Lewis in the letter of the Secretary of State of May 1, that Lewis must raise about half a million dollars.

Loans aggregating $411,000 by the bank
to Lewis, indorsed by officials, directors
and corporations controlled by him, are classified as cash assets of the bank, must be taken up and paid at once by requirement of Secretary Swanger.

Mr. Swanger said Thursday that he had taken charge of all the assets of the bank
and that he held the key to the safe where
the bank's money and certificates of stock
are kept.

It is understood that $700 in cash was found in this safe during the investigation Wednesday afternoon and that $100,000 was found on deposit in other banks of the city.
(The investigation also disclosed, it is said,
that Lewis had paid on January 6 of the $2,500,000 capital stock, authorized and paid
in to him by stockholders.)

While the State of Missouri was acting through Secretary of State Swanger, the United States Government moved also. Late Wednesday afternoon a citation to show either by mail or in person, June 16, to the Assistant Attorney-General, why a fraud order should not be issued against him, preventing the use of the mails to his bank
was served on Mr. Lewis.

PROMINENT ST. LOUISANS WITHDRAW FROM BANK.

In the March issue of the Bank Reporter,
the official pamphlet of the People's United States Bank, Lewis gives the names of 17 men, mostly of St. Louis, well known who signed, with him, the charter of the bank.

One of these is August Schuchman. Mr.
Schuchman said to a Post-Dispatch reporter
Thursday:

"I signed the charter and was for a time
interested in the bank to a small extent.
But several months ago I severed all connection with it. I do not recall that I in whatever way, own a stock and am not concerned with it. I was never an officer or director of the bank."

Mr. Pinckney French said: "I never had any stock in the bank. I authorized Mr.
Lewis to use my name in certain stock
transactions, the details of which I do not now recall, and the use of my name as one of the signers to the charter was not objected to by me. I have never had any stock in it, however. I do not recall that I was ever asked to take any. In January, I and my associates withdrew from all association with the bank."

George H. Augustine said: "I took a small block of stock in the bank, and sold it to Mr. Lewis. I was fully paid up. I never tried to get out of the bank and never had any disagreement concerning it. I was satisfied to leave it to Mr. Lewis. I was not a stock owner by him, but said it was inconceivable."

way possible, but that after the investigation had proceeded for several weeks, and was still far from being completed, he ceased to involve them in their work. On this matter the report says:

"The investigation of this case, which
at the beginning was apparently courted
by E. G. Lewis, was afterwards much hampered and delayed by him when he found we desired to verify every account
of the investigation, and on the 21st ult.,
when Inspectors Sullivan and Stice called to verify the returns to which Lewis was entitled for returns of remittances for capital stock, cancellations, withdrawals,
alleged dividends, etc., found or alleged records of subscriptions, for stock, Lewis
practically informed us that we had 'gone
the limit' in the investigation; that his clerk clerks were seized to death every time
the Inspectors or State Bank Examiners visited his office, and were circulating it
over the city that the bank was in a bad
way and was likely to go out of business,
and that Inspector in Charge Sullivan had been sent out, had kept him over 1000 in withdrawals of money sent in for stocks or deposits. He then proposed that we leave with him a list of the credits we had found, and he would withdraw all papers relating to same, and then allow us to verify them. We have not yet had that opportunity."

Says He Drew Salary.

In support of the Inspectors' statement that Lewis drew salary from the bank at a time when the bank was not in existence, when he is alleged to have drawn $100,000 in salary, the report says:

Postoffice Investigation.

The Inspectors state in their report that Lewis said for an investigation, and at first apparently seemed to be in a

The May Co. Great June Trade Sales! The May Co.

News That Will Set the Town Astir—Astonishing News All Previous Records Will Be Broken in These Great Sales

THIS has been the most phenomenal season we have ever experienced, and our heavy sales have reduced stocks so low that we were enabled to quickly take advantage of remarkable offers which makers who were anxious to start on their fall lines made us. We probably occupy a unique position in these days of the cry of "Overstocks" and the knowledge of this fact has become public with mill and manufacturers all over the country, resulting in wonderful price concessions in order to gain an outlet.

Never before was the wonderful purchasing power of a dollar used to such remarkable advantages. Never before has a combined buying organization achieved such splendid results—advantages which accrue directly to our patrons.

Starting tomorrow morning we will inaugurate a series of June Trade Sales, the like of which were never witnessed in St. Louis or the West—a distribution of the very merchandise which the warm days of June, July and August demand. The initial attraction will be the great purchase and sale of Men's High Grade Clothing, particulars of which will be found on the right. From day to day other special attractions will be announced and you will do well to eagerly read our daily news.

SNYDER TO BE TRIED HERE. Understood Attorneys Will Not Ask Change of Venue.

It is probable that the second trial of Robert M. Snyder, on the charge of murder, will be held here. The attorneys for the defense, who have been making every effort to get the case removed to St. Louis, are understood to have agreed not to ask for a change of venue. The case was continued by Judge Foster to

Snyder has been tried and convicted once,
but the Supreme Court reversed and remanded the case.

ALEXANDER, HYDE AND TARBELL TO BE DECAPITATED

Frick Committee Report Declares Against Officers of the Equitable Life Society and Demands Restitution of Funds.

EXTRAVAGANCE AND BIG SALARIES CONDEMNED

Bitter Fight Over Report in Directors Meeting and Matter Laid Over to Friday—M. E. Ingalls Tells of Stormy Session.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The report of the Frick committee, which consists of 42 pages of printed matter, read to the Equitable Life directors by M. E. Ingalls, contains the following radical declarations:

1. It practically demands the removal of President James W. Alexander, First Vice-President James H. Hyde and Second Vice-President Gage E. Tarbell.

2. It declares that the office of director of the Equitable Society who profited in any way as a member of the "James H. Hyde and Associates" syndicates must pay back into the treasury of the society every dollar he made at the expense of the policyholders. It declares that if any of these guilty officers refuse to refund this money that the Equitable should compel restitution by suits.

3. It declares that the office of President Alexander has been managed with laxity and negligence and should be thoroughly reorganized.

4. It charges that Vice-President Tarbell has conducted his office with waste and extravagance and that his department should be reorganized. No charge of dishonesty is made against Mr. Tarbell.

5. It condemns the salary of $122,500 paid to James H. Hyde by the Equitable Life and its subsidiary companies, the Mercantile Trust and the Equitable Trust, and censures a system that has prevailed in Mr. Hyde's office by which his personal clerks receive salary advances sometimes as high as 250 per cent.

6. It declares that the entire business of life insurance should be thoroughly reorganized in the interest of its beneficiaries, the policyholders.

7. It finds that waste and extravagance, if not peculation, have existed in practically every department of the Equitable Society.

8. It declares that between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 have been deposited in different institutions for the personal use of certain officers of the society.

9. It declares that secret agreements have been made among certain officers to purchase large lots of bonds and that other secret agreements have been made to sustain the price of these bonds after the purchases have been made.

10. It condemns settlements of various suits that have been brought against certain directors of the society with the money of the Equitable. In connection with the settlement of the suit brought by former Gov. B. B. Odell Jr. for his losses in the securities of the United States Ship Building Co., it is declared that this was done to gratify the private ambition of certain directors.

11. All of the charges of wrongful misuse of the Equitable's money against Mr. Hyde, such as the $12,500 paid for the Cambon dinner, are gone into with great detail and condemnation.

12. It finds that extravagant charges for traveling expenses were made by both Mr. Hyde and Third Vice-President George T. Wilson, the former putting in bills for $40,000 and the latter for $60,000, a total for the two men of $100,000.

While that part of the report was being read dealing with the sales to the Equitable of securities in which directors were interested and out of which they made large profits there was a painful scene in which Jacob H. Schiff, Cornelius N. Bliss and Henry C. Frick were the chief actors. Mr. Schiff, terribly excited and agitated, jumped up and interrupted the reading of the report by declaring that he had committed no illegal act in the sale of the securities which his firm, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had made to the Equitable.

He was fairly and squarely censured by both Mr. Frick and Mr. Bliss. All three of the men became greatly excited and others joined in the uproar. For a minute or two so bitter was the argument that it was feared some of the financiers engaged would come to blows. The scene was described as the most remarkable ever witnessed in the big solemn board room of the Equitable Life.

Instead of settling the war within the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Frick report has tangled up the situation in a way that it materially increases the gravity of the scandal and makes a settlement more remote than ever.

Hyde Is Greatly Surprised.

The report has proved to be a stupendous surprise, especially to James H. Hyde and his supporters.

The greatest care was taken to prevent the report from becoming public until the directors act upon it next Friday. Copies of the report were given to all of the directors when they entered the board room and each one had to return his copy when he left the room. When the meeting finally adjourned for the day all of the copies were collected before any of the directors were permitted to leave the room. The copies were then taken personally by Frick and locked in a safe of which he and the other members of his committee know the combination.

Committeeman Ingalls Talks.

The only director who would consent to talk was Melville E. Ingalls, one of the members of the Frick Committee. At the Waldorf-Astoria he said to a reporter for the Post-Dispatch:

"When the report of the Frick Committee becomes known to the public, it will create a sensation, that is now but little dreamed of.

"We are pledged to secrecy as to the findings of the committee, but, of course, they will become public sooner or later and they will surround the whole business world. The report was read and a very acrimonious meeting followed. The fight will be taken up with the same bitterness next Friday.

"It is a mistake to imagine that the report makes a scapegoat of Second Vice-President Gage E. Tarbell. We are out for much bigger game. Mr. Tarbell spoke for more than an hour. He made a good speech, of the Kentucky brand, and it was very well received.

"Concerning the rumor that I may become chairman of the directors I wish to say that such a position will never be offered me. I am the last man all concerned would want. They would not accept a man who has been fighting them tooth and nail. When that report is made public I shall be lucky to get out of this city alive.

"Vice-President Tarbell was not scored any more than others, and he will not be in any sense made a scapegoat or a brush with which to whitewash others."

Equitable Building Management.

One of the new charges of mismanagement within the Equitable Society grows out of the Equitable Building. This piece of property is rated among the assets of the Society at $15,000,000. It is the most valuable building in New York City. It is declared that the Equitable Building showed a deficit last year because of the low rentals charged to corporations in which some of its directors are interested. It is charged that the books were so manipulated last year as to show a profit of 26 per cent. Part of this alleged profit was created, it is said, by an artificial addition of $38,000 to the building's income account. The deficit was largely caused, it is charged, by an expenditure of $25,000 for safe and vaults for the Mercantile Safe Deposit, of which Mr. Hyde is the controlling owner. There was no increase in the rent.

Another matter which has provoked much criticism is a pension of $25,000 a year, which, it is said, is paid Mrs. Hyde, mother of James H. Hyde and widow of Henry B. Hyde, the founder of the society. When Henry B. Hyde died a large sum is said to have been paid to his estate out of the funds of the policyholders. Why a pension should now be paid to Mrs. Hyde, who is a very rich woman, is a mystery to many persons connected with the Equitable.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR WHIPPING

Clayton Man Sues Husband and Wife for $3500.

Robert Swinger filed suit Wednesday in the Clayton Circuit Court against William and Minnie McFarland, asking $3500 damages for a whipping they are alleged to have given him.

The McFarlands, it is alleged, met Swinger on the street several days ago and William McFarland pushed him up against the brick wall of a building and held him while his wife administered severe punishment.

The object, declares Swinger, was revenge for an offense alleged to have been perpetrated by him. Swinger alleges that his actual damages are $1000, and asks that $2500 additional be assessed against the defendants as exemplary damages.

FATHERS' CLUB TO MANAGE A PICNIC

Unique Organization Offers Prize for Mother Who Sprints Fastest

The Fathers' Club of the Washington School, Fountain and Euclid avenue, has charge of all arrangements for the school picnic to be given at Ramona Park Friday and promises to make it such a success that it will take rank as the daddy of all school picnics.

In addition to a program of sports in which the children will compete, the fathers themselves will play a game of ball, the captain of the winning team to be decorated with a leather medal. Both nines will be composed exclusively of fathers of children now pupils in the school.

Then, too, because the organization of a Mothers' Club in the Washington School was responsible for the Fathers' Club, the latter has arranged for a 50-yard dash event for mothers, two prizes offered, the first being a gas water-heater. Seven hundred mothers are invited by 20 fathers to participate in this race.

An excellent program of sports in which the boys and girls of the school will compete in separate classes has been prepared and many handsome prizes are offered. There will also be a march and drill by the pupils under the direction of teachers.

Father Partridge, president of the Fathers' Club, is in charge of the picnic arrangements and is said to be a "bird" at managing such affairs. The Fathers' Club was organized during the winter of 1904, following the organization of a Mothers' Club, and has been a brilliant success. It is believed to be the only organization of its kind in the world.

SEE MAN ABBED TO DEATH

See Say James Gallagher Slain by Pursuer After Falling in Alley.

MAN IS ARRESTED

ph W. Gray Identified by
as of the Hucker's Companions as Man With Knife.

ten witnesses who saw the killing of
as Gallagher in the alley at the rear
20 South Broadway about 6:30 o'clock
Tuesday afternoon, say Gallagher was killed to death after he had fallen and he was trying to escape.

Mrs. Geneva Schoenhard of 618 South
Broadway was on the second floor rear
porch of her house and saw the pursuit,
the stabbing and the escape of the mur-derer.

She says the man who did the stabbing
was tall and of heavy build. She thinks he must have been nearly six feet tall. She says he wore overalls and appeared to be a working man. He wore a dark shirt, a black coat and a big black slouch hat. He had a heavy dark mustache and no beard. His features she could only describe as being coarse.

The other descriptions of the man who did the stabbing do not differ materially from this.

Joseph William Gray, who was arrested
early Thursday morning in his room at 800
South Broadway, has been partially identified by some of the witnesses as the man who inflicted the wound that caused Gal-lagher's death.

"I saw the man run toward the wagon,"
she said. "He stumbled over the gate and fell against the wheel of the wagon. While the man was on the ground the other man stabbed him. He turned around, and I was scared and I ran home."

Aggie Christman, 16 years old, who lives in the house at 520 South Broadway, tells practically the same story as Mary Horan.

The children were playing together in the alley at the time of the murder.

Mrs. Geneva Schoenhard of 618 South
Broadway viewed Gray in the holdover
Thursday morning and declared that she was almost positive that he was the man who had committed the crime.

Held as a Suspect.

Gray is 41 years old. He is a grantold worker. He has a dark red mustache, and thick, bushy hair. He is six feet tall and broad and muscular. When arrested, he had on overalls, covered with mortar. His shoes also were similarly marked. He had a black coat and a dark blue shirt, and he wore a black slouch hat. He declares
he knows nothing of the killing and says
the first he heard of it was from reporters.
The police are holding him as a suspect.

Gallagher lived at 223 Mulhenny Wednesday he was working with Phil and Tom Maguire of 123 North Twenty-second street,
and Joseph O'Connell of 2241 Dickson street,
all hucksters. Gallagher was a solicitor
for them, and Wednesday was the first day
Gallagher had worked with them.

The two Maguires and O'Connell say that the wagon was the alley at the rear of 618 South Broadway. They were on the wagon, and Gallagher had gone in the yard to cut his hair. He had been absent but a few minutes
when they saw him running through the yard with a man at his heels. The man in pursuit held a knife in his hands. When Gallagher drew near, the man who was pursuing him and stabbed him. Gallagher was under the wagon. The hucksters said that they applied the whip and drove away as rapidly as they could. In driving away they said the wheels of the wagon passed over their companion. They said they feared the man who had stabbed Gallagher.

They drove, they said, to Twenty-second street and Cass avenue, where they dismounted. They were arrested in different places by Special Officers Greeley, Dunk, Burke and Mahon, and made practically the statements given above.

Early Thursday morning Phil Maguire
was taken by Special Officer Greeley to the house at 123 North Broadway. Maguire was asked if Gray was the man who had stabbed Gallagher. He positively identified Gray. Gray was arrested and taken to the Four Court, where the other hucksters
said they thought he was the assassin.

Mary Horan, 8 years old, daughter of John Horan, a waiter in the Mercantile
Club, who lives on the third floor at 618
South Broadway, was in the alley and saw
the killing.

Hucksters Violated Ordinance.

As a result of the murder, City License Collector, Clifford, addressed a letter to Chief of Police Kelly Thursday morning, instructing him to order that hereafter not more than two men be allowed on a different wagon at one time—a driver and a peddler—as specified by the ordinance regulating their licenses.

Where more than two men are allowed on one wagon, the Collector, they prove a menace to neighborhoods throughout the city. They give housewives short change and are a nuisance, and then
intimidating them by force of numbers.
They are also likely, he thinks, to quarrel
among themselves.

PORTLAND FAIR THIS OPEN TO VISITING WORLD

Signal for Opening Wide Exposition Gates to People Flashed Over Wire From White House by President.

PAGEANT AND IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK EVENT

National, State and City, Civic and Military Officials Take Part in Beginning Centennial of "Blazing Oregon Trail."

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—Amidst a scene of festivity and splendor never equaled in the Pacific Northwest, with din and clamor of cheering thousands, accompanied by the booming of artillery, the chiming of bells and the blaring of bands, Portland today marked her greatest day in the world in the formal opening of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition.

The event took place under conditions of complete success to this historical commemoration of blazing the trail to "Old Oregon," by Capt. Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, who, commissioned by President Jefferson, explored the great Oregon country 100 years ago.

Today's celebration was participated in by the President of the United States and his personal representative, Charles W. Fairbanks, representatives of the Senate and of the House of Representatives of the National Congress, of the army and navy, together with the governors and state officials of California, Idaho, Washington and Oregon and multitudes of people from far and near.

All Portland was decked in her best, business was suspended and the holiday spirit was everywhere in evidence. The states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, in which June 1 had been declared a legal holiday in honor of the centennial, sent thousands of visitors.

The pride to the actual opening ceremonies at the exposition consisted of the parade, a grand pageant of militarism led by Vice-President Fairbanks, the congressional party, visiting governors and other dignitaries and the Exposition officials.

Everything being in readiness at 11:45 o'clock, Vice-President Fairbanks and party emerged from the New York building, receiving the Vice-Presidential salute of 15 guns. Flanked on either side by a line of troops, the party walked to the speakers' stand. As the word was passed that the party was ready, an air of expectancy settled over the crowd, which gave way to a tremendous outburst of cheering and hand clapping as the official party ascended the speaker's platform.

Beginning of Ceremonies.
Promptly at 12 o'clock noon, President H. W. Goode of the Exposition, arose, and gavel in hand, announced the beginning of the ceremonies which meant the realization of Portland's dream. The announcement was received with tremendous cheering which echoed back and forth.

As the echo died away the Right Rev. David H. Moore, Bishop of the Memorial Episcopal Church, stepping to the front of the platform raised his hands and invoked the divine blessing.

The impressive silence which followed the prayer was broken as the inspiring strains of "Imperial Oregon," a march composed by Innes and dedicated to the memory of Capt. Lewis and Clark and inscribed to the people of Oregon, was played by the band.

President Goode then spoke, recounting the building of the Exposition and welcoming the world to see and be entertained. Following President Goode, Gov. George Chamberlain of the State of Oregon was introduced. Gov. Chamberlain, in a short address, congratulated the people of the State, the city of Portland and the Lewis and Clark corporation upon the achievement of an event so notable in the history of the city and State.

Hon. Jefferson Myers, president of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Commission for the State of Oregon, was enthusiastically applauded when he took his position on the rostrum and addressed the people on behalf of the commission.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic applause which greeted any of the notable speakers was accorded Hon. George H. Williams, the Mayor of the city of Portland, whose 52 years of life have not sapped the vigor of his youth nor detracted from his ability as a public speaker. He spoke a welcome on behalf of the city of Portland.

Hon. Clarence D. Clark of Wyoming, representing the United States Senate, was next to extend congratulations upon the opening of the Exposition. He was attentively heard.

Hon. James A. Tawney followed Senator Clark on behalf of the Federal House of Representatives. The congratulations and felicitations of the various departments of the United States Government were expressed by Hon. A. Taylor, first secretary of the treasury and chairman of the United States Government Board.

Hon. Joseph F. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was the last to be brought out by the greatness of the Exposition, and the sentiment for which it stands.

Ovation to Fairbanks.
At this period of the program the steady increasing enthusiasm of the multitude found expression in a tremendous ovation to Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, the personal representative of the President of the United States. Through his previous visits to this city, notably during the national campaign, Mr. Fairbanks became somewhat intimately known to the people of the city and State. He was scarcely able to make himself heard above the noise of the greeting.

After his splendid salute of 21 guns was the signal to the impatient throng that the moment of the opening of the Exposition was at hand. Upon a telegraph operator seated at an instrument in the speakers' stand the eyes of the multitude were riveted, and while the guns were still booming, the movement of his hands at the key was a sufficient indications to the watchers that President Roosevelt was being advised that all was in readiness to receive the signal from the White House which would formally open the Exposition.

Then followed a wait of several minutes, marked by an impressive stillness, during which eye and ear were strained to catch the first move of the operator's hand or a sound from the telegraph instrument. Suddenly out of the quiet came a faint click, denoting the receipt of a signal, and Oregon's greatest hour had come.

Exposition Declared Open.
Almost simultaneously with the clicking of the telegraph instrument President Goode's gavel fell and he proclaimed the Exposition open.

The throng seemed hardly to realize it, but as the clear, sweet tones of the Cathedral chimes in the Government Building floated out and hundreds of flags broke to the breeze, and cannon roared their thunderous accompaniment to the "Star Spangled Banner," played by the massed bands, pandemonium loosed itself. One wild, exultant shout and then cheer after cheer resounded through the grounds; hats were thrown into the air and the noise was swelled by a thousand horns and the shaking of whistles.

When, through the people's inability to continue the rejoicing longer, quiet was restored, the benediction was pronounced by Most Rev. Alexander Christie, Archbishop of Oregon City. After the playing of the national anthem was followed the benediction, all heads remained uncovered. As the Centennial salute of 100 guns, the closing of the ceremonies, was being given, the rejoicing broke out again and the crowd threw itself into the abandon of holiday making.

Following the conclusion of the literary program the official party guests repaired to the New York State Building, where refreshments were served and an informal reception was held. In the meantime vast numbers of the thousands followed the indication to hit the "Trail" the Exposition Midway.

SNEAK THIEVES FIND FOUR VICTIMS

Dress Suitcase Stolen at Union Station and Man Robbed by Two "Friends."

Four instances of pocket-picking and sneak-thieving were reported to the police last Wednesday night by victims.

Henry S. Lee of Crew, Va., told Policeman Schmolinski at Union Station that while he was talking with one of the ticket-sellers about securing transportation home some one walked off with his dress suit, case, in which were clothes and articles worth $75.

Bert Leroy of 429 South Twelfth street was on his way home Wednesday night accompanied by two "friends." When near Thirteenth and Market he slipped and fell. His companions kindly assisted him to his feet. A little while later Mr. Leroy became aware he was minus $20. He gave the names of his "friends" to the police.

A thief entered the room of James Wooster at 156 Louist street last night and walked off with a typewriter valued by its owner at $30.

Charles Moore, who rooms at the home of Philip Kansas at 18 North Western, left a pocketbook containing $50 in bills and some change when he went out last evening, guarding himself against the possibility of being halted and robbed. When he returned he found that the $50 was gone, but the change was still in the purse, the thief evidently having the gentlemanly instinct to leave his car fare.

DOCTOR FINED FOR QUARREL WITH GIRL

Miss Dauphin Said He Insisted on Prolonging Visit After Starting Home.

Dr. Lewis Baricelli of 1005 1/2 North Broadway, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Spaulding in Old City Hall Police Court Thursday on a charge of disturbing the peace, proffered by Miss Sarah Dauphin of 214 South Seventh street.

Miss Dauphin testified that the defendant had called to see her Wednesday night and that, on her accompanying him to the front gate after his visit, they had an argument, caused by his insisting upon returning into the house and prolonging his visit, and that finally she had called Policemen Platzer and Heinze, and had him arrested.

On cross-examination, the plaintiff testified that she had formerly been employed by defendant and said that he had promised to marry her, but had always postponed the wedding, and that the trouble last night was due to another postponement.

Defendant testified that plaintiff had formerly been in his employ, and that he had visited her. He told of a letter which he had received and turned up after reading, and charged that plaintiff had obtained the fragments and placed them together and tried to make trouble between him and another person on account of the letter.

RULERS OF SPAIN AND FRANCE JUST GRAZED BY BOMB

King Alfonso and President Loubet Escape Death Only by Anarchist's Error in Hurling Explosive a Few Feet Too Far.

ACCUSED DYNAMITERS ARRESTED BY DOZENS

Paris Police Scour City for Would-Be Double Assassins—Several Spaniards in Custody on Charge of Recent Similar Attempt.

PARIS, June 1.—Through the would-be assassin's error in hurling his bomb over instead of into their carriage President Loubet of France and King Alfonso of Spain escaped being blown to pieces on their way from the Grand Opera House at 12 o'clock last night.

As it was, the explosion occurred so near the royal carriage that five guardsmen who surrounded it were wounded and several cavalry horses killed or maimed. Dozens of arrests have been made of persons suspected of complicity in the plot. Among the number is Arsene Arnaud, a laboratory attendant, who, the police believe, actually threw the bomb. Arnaud is suffering from a wound in the eye. He is said to be an Anarchist.

A short time after the attempt on the lives of President Loubet and King Alfonso another bomb was found in the Rue Rivoli, near the spot where the previous explosion occurred.

The two rulers spent the evening at the gala performance at the Grand Opera House, leaving a few moments before midnight for the Palais d'Orsay. Entering the same carriage they drove from the Place de l'Opera at a gallop. Surrounding them were several squadrons of cuirassiers. As they approached the Rue Rivoli the crowd became so great that the cuirassiers were compelled to rein in their horses.

Just at this point a man sprang from the crowd and, before the police saw what he was about or could arrest him, threw a bomb directly at the royal carriage.

By an error in aim the anarchist hurled the missile too far, however, and, passing completely over the carriage, it struck a cuirassier on the shoulder and fell to the ground. A deafening explosion followed and soldiers were seen toppling from their horses in every direction.

Captains Schneider and Garnier, who rode to the right and left of the carriage, were both thrown, but escaped serious injuries. A sergeant of cuirassiers was seriously wounded, as were two police officers, a woman and a child, who lost an eye.

The force of the explosion was such as to extinguish the electric lights in the neighborhood. In the excitement which ensued, the soldiers closed about the carriage, the cuirassiers spurred their horses and the cavalcade disappeared through the Louvre arch. King Alfonso turned pale, but remained perfectly calm and even sent one of the attendants to the Spanish Embassy to inquire concerning the condition of the wounded. President Loubet behaved with great composure and hardly showed a change of countenance.

From Madrid reports have been received of the arrest of five anarchists at Port Mahon and Barcelona, accused of complicity in the attempt on King Alfonso's life in the Calle Fernando, Barcelona, several weeks ago.

ARMED MEN GUARD SPAUGH BROTHERS IN IRONTON JAIL

Fears That Neighbors of Murdered Sheriff Will Attempt to Lynch the Prisoners Are Now Gradually Subsiding.

OFFICERS WILL KEEP SPAUGHS IN IRONTON

Father and Brother of Dead Man Remained at Jail to Discourage Any Effort at Lynching—Object to Removal to St. Louis.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE POST-DISPATCH.

By Telephone From Ironton, Mo.
A night having passed without any attempt at violence toward "Bill" and Arthur Spough, who killed Sheriff Polk, no move to prevent the law taking its course is looked for, but precautions will not be neglected. Twenty-five men guarded the Iron County Jail through the night and there will be an ample guard Thursday night.

The expectation was general Wednesday night that an attempt to take the prisoners from the jail would be made by men from the Marble Creek district, 10 miles south-east of Ironton, which was the home of the Sheriff, and there were groups of men on the street corners until 2 o'clock Thursday morning in anticipation that something would happen.

Charles Polk and Harry Polk, father and brother of the dead Sheriff, and Frank Sharp, his uncle, stayed at the jail all night. It was thought that their presence would tend to avert violence. Another reason for their staying was that they were opposed to the Spoughs being taken to St. Louis for safekeeping, as was suggested by Gov. Folk, as a prisoner who was taken to St. Louis once before under similar circumstances escaped.

As soon as the excitement has fully subsided the Spoughs will have their preliminary examination. In the meantime they are closely confined in the strongest part of the jail, which is one of the strongest in the State.

In his telegram Gov. Folk indicated to Temporary Sheriff Marshall that he would be held responsible for the safety of the prisoners and urged that he take all precautions. Marshall feared that if an attempt was made to take the Spoughs away from Ironton they would be mobbed and considered that with 25 guards surrounding the jail it was the safest place for them.

Say Boys Admit the Murder.

The posse which captured the Spoughs was composed of John I. Marshall, Dr. E. L. Barnhouse, Dr. Blanton, J. P. Faus, Fred Delano, John Leonard, Ed. Leonard, Alex. Tesrow, John Tesrow, Ben Left, Willis Condit, Louis Robins, John Robins, Andrew Barnhouse, George Markham and Joseph Atbury.

According to Dr. Barnhouse, who, with Marshall and Faus rode in the surrey in which the prisoners were brought from the Walker farm on the St. Francois River, where they were captured, both admitted having a hand in the killing of the Sheriff. "Bill" said he shot Polk with his Winchester and Arthur said he shot Polk on the head with the butt of his rifle after he fell and bent the barrel, making it useless. He gave it to W. R. Smith, a farmer at the foot of Pilot Knob, where he and his brother obtained breakfast Friday morning.

The boys say they spent Thursday night on Shepherd Mountain and early Friday morning made a detour to Cedar Mountain and a smaller elevation east of Pilot Knob. They stayed on the mountain Friday and Friday night started for the St. Francois River. They arrived in the vicinity of the hut where they were captured at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A posse of men were waiting for them and they were being hidden in the woods and did not see their pursuers.

WOMEN PRISONERS RISE IN A REVOLT

Inmates of Colorado Industrial School for Girls Play Havoc With Fixtures.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DENVER, Colo., June 1.—For two hours last night pandemonium reigned at the State Industrial School for Girls.

While the inmates were at supper about 6:30 o'clock, at a pre-arranged signal they jumped to their feet, overturned the tables, broke the dishes, defied all authority and rushed through the building, smashing the furniture and terrorizing the officers of the institution who are all women.

Eight of the girls succeeded in effecting an escape but three of them were captured about 11 o'clock. The Denver police were appealed to for assistance as were the sheriff of Arapahoe County, the town marshal of Fort Logan and the many farmers. By 9 o'clock order had been restored and the girls were thoroughly subdued. The girls poured quantities of kerosene on the floors and over the beds, and but for prompt action by the fire department the entire structure would have been destroyed. The damage will probably amount to $10,000.

"LEGALLY DEAD," HIS MARRIAGE FORBIDDEN

License Refused to Girl Who Would Wed Nobe Lewis, Under Life Sentence.

Deputy County Clerk Stookey of Belleville refused to issue a marriage license late Wednesday afternoon to Alice Rucker of East St. Louis and Nobe Lewis, an inmate of the St. Clair County Jail, because the latter is under a life sentence for the murder of Joseph Scroth, the "Lithuanian East St. Louis King."

When Miss Rucker applied for the license and told her that she desired to wed, the deputy consulted Circuit Judge Holder, who told him that Lewis was legally dead, that he had no rights as a citizen and therefore could not take the marriage vows.

After being refused the license, Miss Rucker returned to the jail and had a long talk with Lewis, who will be taken to the Chester penitentiary this week to begin his sentence.

THE ADVENTURES OF SHERLOCK HOLMES BY ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Secured for the Post-Dispatch by special arrangement with Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1902, by Harper & Brothers.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.
Sherlock Holmes is telling the story to Dr. Watson. Justice of the Peace Trevor dies suddenly, leaving a cipher message warning him that "the game is up." Holmes has had all day for a confession. The Justice's real name was James Armitage. In his youth he robbed a bank and was transported on the Gloria Scott. On board ship he meets Jack Prendergast, a man of good family, but known by vicious habits, who is being transported for defrauding London merchants of nearly a quarter of a million pounds. Prendergast tells Armitage he has more pounds than Armitage has in his head and that it is in his hand. He urges his friendship on young Armitage.

CHAPTER IV.

The Confession Continues.
"I had thought it meant nothing; but after a while, when he had tested me and sworn me in with all possible solemnity, he let me understand that there really was a plot to gain command of the vessel. A dozen of the prisoners had been hatched before they came aboard. Prendergast was the leader, and his money was the motive power.

"I'd a partner," said he, "a rare good man, as true as a stock to a barrel. He's got the dibbs, he has, and where do you think he is at this moment? Why, he's the chaplain of this ship—the chaplain, no less. He came aboard with a black coat, and his papers right, and money enough in his box to buy the thing right up from keel to main truck. The crew are his, body and soul. He could buy 'em at so much a gross with a cash discount, and he did it before ever they signed on. He's got two of the warders and Messer, the second mate, and he'd got the captain himself, if he thought him worth it."

"What are we to do, then?" I asked.

"What do you think?" said he. "We'll make the coats of some of these soldiers redder than the tailor did."

"But they are armed," said I.

"And so shall we be, my boy. There's a brace of pistols for every mother's son of us, and if we can't carry this ship, with the crew at our back, it's time we were all sent to a young miss's boarding school. You speak to your mate upon the left tonight, and see if he is to be trusted."

"I did so, and found my other neighbor to be a young fellow in much the same position as myself, whose crime had been forgery. His name was Evans, but he afterwards changed it, like myself, and he is now a rich and prosperous man in the South of England. He was ready enough to join the conspiracy, as the only means of saving ourselves, and before we had crossed the bay there were only two of the prisoners who were not in the secret. One of these was of weak mind, and we did not dare to trust him, and the other was suffering from jaundice, and could not be of any use to us."

"From the beginning there was really nothing to prevent us from taking possession of the ship. The crew were a set of ruffians, specially picked for the job. The sham chaplain came into our cells to exhort us, carrying a black bag, supposed to be full of tracts, so often did he come that by the third day we had each stowed away at the foot of our beds a file, a brace of pistols, a pound of powder and 20 slugs. Two of the warders were agents of Prendergast, and the second mate was his right-hand man. The captain, the two mates, two warders, Lieut. Martin, his two soldiers, and the doctor, were all that we had against us. Yet, safe as it was, we determined to neglect no precaution, and to make our attack suddenly by night. It came, however, more quickly than we expected, and in this way:

"One evening, about the third week after our start, the doctor had come down to see one of the prisoners who was ill, and putting his hand down on the bottom of the bunk, he felt the outline of the pistol. If he had been silent he might have blown the whole thing, but he was a nervous little chap, so he gave a cry of surprise and turned so pale that the man knew what was up in an instant and marked him. He was gagged before he could give the alarm, and tied down upon the bed. He had unlocked the door, and led to the deck, and we were through it in a rush. The two sentries were shot down, and so was a corporal who came running to see what was the matter. There were two more soldiers at the door of the stateroom, and their muskets seemed to be loaded, for they never fired upon us, and they were shot while trying to fix their bayonets. Then we rushed upon the door there was an explosion from within and there lay with his brains smeared over the chart of the Atlantic, which was pinned to the table, while the chaplain stood with a smoking pistol in his hand at his elbow. The two mates had both been seized by the crew, and the whole business seemed to be settled."

"The stateroom was next the cabin, and we floored in there and fopped down on the settees, all speaking together, for we were just mad with the feeling that we were free once more. There were lockers all around, and Wilson, the sham chaplain, knocked one of them in and pulled out a dozen of brown sherry. We cracked off the necks of the bottle, poured the stuff out into the tumblers, and were just toasting the blood and the brown sherry on that table turn me sick now when I think of it. We were so cowed by the sight that I think we should have given the job up if it had not been for Prendergast. He belittled like a bull and rushed for the door, with all that were left alive at his heels. Out we ran, and there on the poop were the lieutenant and ten of his men. The swing skylights above the saloon had been a bit open, and they had fired on us through the slit. We got on them before they could load, and they stood to it like men, but we had the upper hand of them, and in five minutes it was all over. My God! was there ever a slaughter house like that ship? Prendergast was like a raging devil, and he picked up the soldiers as if they had been children and threw them overboard, alive or dead. There was one sergeant that was horribly wounded and kept on swimming for a surprising time, until someone in mercy blew out his brains. When the fighting was over there was no one left of our enemies except just the warders, the mates and the doctor.

"It was over them that the great quarrel arose. There were many of us who were glad enough to win back our freedom, and yet who had no wish to have murder on our souls. It was one thing to knock the soldiers over with their muskets. In their hands, and it was another to stand by while men were being killed in cold blood. Eight of us, five convicts and three sailors, said that we would not see it done. But there was no moving Prendergast and those who were with him. Our only chance of safety lay in making a clean job of it, said he, and he would not leave a tongue with power to wag in a witness box. It nearly came to our sharing the fate of the prisoners, but at last he said that if we wished we might take a boat and go. We jumped at the offer, for we were already sick of these bloodthirsty doings, and we saw that there would be worse before it was done. We were given a suit of sailor's togs each, a barrel of water, two casks, one of junk and one of biscuits, and a compass. Prendergast threw over a chart, told us that we were shipwrecked mariners whose ship had foundered in latitude 15 degrees and longitude 25 degrees west, and then cut the painter and let us go.

"And now I come to the most surprising part of my story, my dear Watson. During the rising, but now, as we left the ship, we should make for it. It was what coast we should make for. It was a nice question, for the Cape de Verde were about five hundred miles to the north of us, and the African Coast about seven hundred to the east. On the whole, as the wind was coming round to the north, we thought that Sierra Leone might be best, and turned our head in that direction, the bark being at that time nearly hulled down on our starboard quarter. Suddenly, as we looked at her, we saw a dense cloud of smoke shoot up from her, which hung like a monstrous tree upon the sky line; a few seconds later a roar like thunder burst upon our ears, and as the smoke cleared, and in this instant we saw the boat's head round again and pulled with all our strength for the place where the haze still trailing over the water marked the scene of this catastrophe.

"It was a long hour before we reached it, and at first we feared that we had come too late to save anyone. A splintered boat and a number of crates and fragments of spars rising and falling on the waves showed us where the vessel had foundered; but there was no sign of life, and we had turned in despair when we heard a cry for help, and saw at some distance a piece of wreckage with a man lying stretched across it. When we pulled him aboard the boat he proved to be a young seaman of the name of Hudson, who was so burned and exhausted that he could give us no account of what had happened until the following morning.

"It seemed that after we had left Prendergast and his gang had proceeded to put to death the five remaining prisoners. The two warders had been shot or thrown overboard, and so also had the third mate. Prendergast then descended into the tween-decks, and with his own hands cut the throat of the unfortunate surgeon. There only remained the first mate, who was a bold and active man. When he saw the convict approaching him with the bloody knife in his hand, he kicked off his boots, which he had somehow contrived to loosen, and rushing down the deck, he plunged into the after-hold. A dozen convicts, who descended with their pistols in search of him, found him with a matchbox in his hand, seated beside an open powder barrel, which was one of a hundred carried on board, and swearing that he would blow all hands up if he were in any way molested. An instant later the explosion occurred, though Hudson thought it was caused by the misdirected bullet of one of the convicts rather than the mate's match. Be the cause what it may, it was the end of the Gloria Scott and of the rabble who held command of her.

"Such, in a few words, my dear boy, is the history of this terrible business, in which I was involved. Next day we were picked up by the brig Hotspur, bound for Australia, whose captain found no difficulty in believing that we were the survivors of a passenger ship which had foundered. For more than 20 years we have led peaceful and useful lives, and we hoped that our past was forever buried. Imagine, then, my feelings when in the seaman who came to us I recognized instantly thus man who had been picked up the wreck. He had tracked us down somehow, and had set himself to live upon our fears. You will understand now how it was that I strove to keep the peace with him, and you will in some measure sympathize with me in the fears which all me, now that he has gone from me to his own victim with threats upon his tongue.

"Underneath is written in a hand so shaky as to be hardly legible: 'Beddoes writes in cipher to say H. has told all. Sweet Lord, have mercy on our souls!'

"That is the narrative which I read that night to young Trevor, and I think, Watson, that under the circumstances, it was a dramatic one. The good fellow was heartbroken at it, and went out to the Torral tea planting, where I hear that he is doing well. As to the sailor and Beddoes, neither of them was ever heard of again after that day on which the letter of warning was written. They both disappeared utterly and completely. No complaint had been lodged with the police, so that Beddoes had mistaken a threat for a deed. Hudson had been lurking about, and it is believed by the police that he had done away with Beddoes and had fled. I think it is most probable that Beddoes, pushed to desperation and believing himself to have been already betrayed, had revenged himself upon Hudson and had fled from the country with as much money as he could lay his hands on. These are the facts of the case, doctor, and if they are of any use to your collection, I am sure that they are very heartily at your service."

This is the end of the story of "The Gloria Scott." Tomorrow the first chapter of "The Musgrave Ritual"—another Sherlock Holmes story—will appear in the Post-Dispatch.

WHAT WHISKEY COSTS THE DRUNKARD.

Cure the Drink Habit With Orrino and Save Money.

Whiskey drinking does not pay. Take the lowest possible view, without counting the loss of friends, the loss of business, the loss of manhood that comes to the drunkard; consider simply the actual money paid out, and see what it costs in dollars and cents. Good authority states that nearly one-third of the wages of the laboring man goes over the bar. How much are you contributing? Figure up for one month how much you take from your wife and children and pay out in exchange for drink. The total will astonish you, and you will swear off.

Will power alone will not cure the habit. Orrino, the only guaranteed cure for the habit. It can be used without publicity or loss of time. It strengthens the nerves, gives a good appetite and refreshing sleep. The cost is small, $1 per bottle. Write to sell and be supplied by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 1143 North and Washington avenues, St. Louis.

CHARGES BRIBE WAS OFFERED TO ORDER A STRIKE

Shea Tells Grand Jury That Teaming Interests' Official Wanted One Called Against Sears, Roebuck & Co.

INDUCEMENT HELD OUT, TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS

Labor Leaders Charge Attorneys and Officials of Employers' Association With Fomenting Riots to Gain Public Sympathy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, June 1.—Cornelius P. Shea, president of Teamsters' Union, subjected to a rigid examination by the Cook County Grand Jury today for two hours, sprang a sensation when he declared that he was offered $10,000 two years ago to call a strike of teamsters against Sears, Roebuck & Co.

"Who offered you the money?" Shea was asked by Assistant State's Attorney Faka, in charge of the inquiry.

Shea is reported to have replied that he was offered the money by a former official of the associated teaming interests.

"Shea's charge came after he had been questioned for nearly an hour regarding the strike against Montgomery Ward & Co. Its causes and the charges that have been made regarding the instigation of the strike.

President Shea also made a statement concerning conspiracies on the part of certain employers to prevent the big office buildings from using gas fuel.

He declared that the solid teamsters were induced to enter that strike on the belief that they would secure more work.

President Shea went further today and declared: "Not a strike of any consequence is called in Chicago where the employers do not try to bribe the unions."

John C. Driscoll's name has often been mentioned in relation to the present strike and Shea is reported to have declared that Driscoll had nothing to do with the calling of the strike in any way and that the strike was called because of the garment workers' strike and for no other reason.

The grand jury is known to have directed that a subpoena be issued for John C. Driscoll immediately after Shea had left the juryroom.

Chicago labor leaders are to submit to the Cook County grand jury charges that Attorney Levy Meyer of the Employers' Association, Chief of Detectives Buckmaster of the same organization, and many prominent members of the association have deliberately fomented riots during the teamsters' strike here in the hope of winning public sympathy for the employers.

It will be argued that they are responsible for all the murders committed since the strike began. Indictments will also be sought against officers of the Employers' Teaming Co., on the charge that they have used false representations in engaging men to take the strikers' places.

Action calculated to bring a quick ending to the strike has been taken at a meeting of the Chicago Team Owners' Association, a committee being appointed to demand of the teamsters that the right of the team owners to make deliveries to strike-bound houses be submitted to arbitration.

Should the drivers refuse to agree to this proposition the team owners will vote on the question of making deliveries to strike-bound firms. Should an affirmative vote be taken, and there are many team owners who are in a mood to take the step, the main support of the Teamsters' Union will be taken away and more than 800 drivers added to the idle army created since the strike against Montgomery Ward & Co. was called April 6.

The effect of the teamsters' strike is seen in the building and transfer records for May, which fall short of maintaining the increase over a year ago shown in April.

There were 794 building permits issued during April for structures to cost $6,790,150, while in May the permits numbered 633 for structures to cost $4,498,250.

NOTICE MYSTIFIES PUPILS East St. Louis Admonition "Look Out for June 7," Creation of High School Students.

East St. Louis has a mystery. It holds interest particularly for the public school pupils who are striving to effect its solution before the day set for the secret to be told.

In various parts of the city are notices "Look out for June 7." The notices are not printed, but in writing. The frequent repetition of the admonition has caused much discussion and boys and girls spend their recesses in speculating as to what it might be. They know it isn't a circus—circuses have printed posters. They're sure it can't mean half-day school, because the temperature remains so far below the ninety point.

George Renard, High School student, says he is one of the four originators of the plan. He refuses to tell one word what it is, but he is willing to tell the others. He says three others are in the secret besides himself—two are Jeff Daniels and Robert Johnson. Both are former students of the East St. Louis High School and each has a mind given to original ideas.

Henry R. Layties Desires to inform his friends and acquaintances that he is now engaged in the real estate, loan and investment business at 622 Chestnut street. He will be pleased to serve them in above line and wishes to give all matters his best personal attention. Both Phones. Bell, Main 4346, Kinkoch, A 287.

FIRST BLOOD FOR METCALF

Court Holds Conspiracy Existed Against Critic, and Managers Must Answer.

James S. Metcalf, dramatic critic of Life, who recently came to St. Louis and personally stated before the Contemporary Club the case of his fight with the Theatrical Trust, won first blood in the New York courts yesterday.

Magistrate Poole decided that in excluding the critic from 47 theaters in the city the New York Theatrical Managers' Association had engaged in a conspiracy for which they must answer.

The magistrate made three important rulings: (1) That Metcalf follows a lawful calling as a dramatic critic and that a concerted effort to bar him from the theaters amounts to a conspiracy to deprive him of his professional means of livelihood; (2) that a theater is not a private property, as the managers have contended, but a public place to which a critic cannot be denied admission because of his criticisms of the plays and the management; and (3) that the persons in whose interest such conspiracies against the critic are made are answerable, whether they personally participate in the exclusion of the critic or not.

Twenty-four managers are held under this decision and compelled to give bond for their appearance to answer a charge of conspiracy.

So far, Metcalf's victory over the managers is complete. The ruling upon the three points enumerated is a clean sweep for the critic in all for which he contended.

If the higher courts sustain the decision of Magistrate Poole, Metcalf will not only establish his right to enter any theater he chooses to enter, but may recover damages from the managers that excluded him.

A number of similar cases throughout the country await the precedents to be established in the Metcalf case. The ill feeling which exists between the critics of the country and the Theatrical Trust has caused open ruptures in several places, notably in Milwaukee and some other Western cities, where critics are barred from theaters because of their strictures upon the performances. In New York, also, there are other critics than Metcalf that are barred from certain theaters.

Walter Damrosch, who brought his New York Symphony Orchestra here last year and gave an orchestral version of "Parsifal" at the Orpheum, is having a "go" with the Musicians' Union of New York City, which is enough to make Apollo turn a hand. It seems that Damrosch recently reinforced his orchestra with five Frenchmen, and that these Frenchmen were so far resented by the New York union that a duty of $1000 was levied on the five imported players, payable by Damrosch. Damrosch kicked like a pile driver, but the union had him, and yesterday he paid the $1000. The union defends its action with the declaration that Damrosch had not made any serious effort to find what he wanted in his own country.

Next week will be devoted to the benefit of the Police Relief Association at Forest Park Highlands. The program assembled for that occasion is full of good acts, headed by Klein, Ott Brothers and Nickerson. The other acts are Prof. Powell's Mammoth Tumble, Empire Comedy Four, Brothers and Sisters Ford, Avery Strakosch, and for the first time in this city an excellent biograph in a summer garden.

"Dr. Bill," the play presented this week by "Washburn's New York Comedians at West End Heights," is meeting with even greater success than the "Man from Mexico" did last week. It seems to bring out the strength of the company to better advantage than the previous week's offering. Miss Helen Luckey and Mr. Harry Burkhardt are receiving their success of last week, and Mr. Charles Seay makes prominent the small part of a "butler." The other members of the company are seen to better advantage than last week. There is a matinee every day except Monday, at 3 o'clock.

At the Imperial Theater the Esther Ruess Stock Company is doing well this week in an adaptation of Tolstoy's "Resurrection," which they are presenting with evident care. This play has only been seen once before in St. Louis, when played by Blanche Walsh at the Century. Next Sunday matinee and week "The Butterflies" or "Mother," taken from Daud's novel, will be the play, and a strong cast is promised, including Miss Ruess, Eloise French, Leon Robeymold, Robert Highland, Katherine Tabor, Leora Spellmeyer and John Gordon.

"The Rounders" will be produced at Delmar Garden next week. The piece was first brought out at the New York Casino with Dan Daly playing the part of the Duke de Paty de Clam. Harry Shaw will take the part here next week, and Miss Eleanor Kent, the prima donna, will be seen as Thea. The attendance upon the performances of "The Girl from Paris" at Delmar this week has been surprisingly good when the weather was favorable at all.

The Empire Garden at the west end of Benton avenue is the latest in the local field with a summer vaudeville bill. This week Manager Gallagher has Elisha Haveland, a very clever entertainer, as his headliner. Others on the bill are Barker and Barker, singers and dancers; Jessie Russell in a serpentine dance; Cummings, magician, and the Manhattan Quartet. A new bill will be put on next week.

The St. Louis Choral, under the auspices of the Morning Choral Club, will give its first concert at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Central High School. Prof. William John Hall is the director.

Davis Lewis, who was here as the original royal chef, has been fired upon by the Chicago critics in his creation of the character of Kaffoosium in a musical piece called that name and he announces his intention to file two $10,000 libel suits against the News and its critic, Amy Leslie.

LIVED 63 YEARS IN ST. LOUIS.

Funeral of Mrs. Frances Castaine Held Thursday Morning.

Mrs. Frances Castaine, who died Tuesday at the residence of her son, James W. Castaine, 2916 Ellendale avenue, of senile debility, at the age of 71, was buried Thursday morning, the services taking place at the house and the interment in Oaklawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Castaine was born in Woodstock, Vt., and came to St. Louis when a child of 14, her father, Charles Jay, having been for many years a sawmill manufacturer in this city.

She married Amadee Castaine, who died 25 years ago, and is survived by three sons, William, one time boiler inspector of St. Louis; James W., engineer at the Post-Dispatch building, and Bertrand L. Castaine.

Mrs. Castaine remembered well when Twelfth street marked the city's western limits and was fond of indulging in reminiscences of the oldtime St. Louis. She had been ill for six months, and her death was not unexpected.

WED FIRST "RARE JUNE DAY"

When Miss Kathryn Schafer and Rodney M. Jones went out to St. Charles on Decoration Day and obtained a marriage license, Miss Schafer laughingly remarked to a friend: "I do not know when this will be used."

We are going to be married on a rare day in June. The date set is June 8, but if that day be not "rare" it will be postponed from day to day until the sun shines brightly.

Mr. Jones is general sales manager for a typewriter manufacturing and his headquarters are in New York. Until two months ago he was St. Louis manager for his firm. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will leave Thursday night for New York, where they will make their home.

EYE WITNESS TELLS OF TOGO'S GREAT VICTORY

London Telegraph's War Correspondent Who Viewed Destruction of Rojstvensky's Fleet Describes the Course of the Magnificent Engagement.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1905, by the Press Pub. Co.
(New York World)

LONDON, June 1.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Mok, Japan, who was an eye witness of Admiral Togo's brilliant naval victory at Tsu Island, Japan, wires the following graphic description of the fight:

"The combined Second and Third Russian Squadrons arrived in Japanese territorial waters by passing through the Bashee Strait. The plan of the Admiral commanding was to divide the Japanese strength at the outset, and his fast cruisers were sent ahead to scout Tushima Strait. From the offing of Salsutua the main Russian fleet changed its course as if its intention was to return to Bashee Strait. But at 5 o'clock Saturday morning it steered toward Korea Strait in a southeasterly direction toward Salsutua.

"At this time the Japanese combined fleet had left its prearranged base and a squadron was detached to press the Russians toward Iki Island. The Russians were full steam ahead and every ship was steaming at its maximum practicable speed, affording a most impressive and majestic sight.

"Meanwhile the Japanese were lurking in the neighborhood. The Russians passed Iki Island, and proceeded on a due northerly course. The Japanese were ready for the fray and their auxiliary fleet to the north headed off the Russians.

"Then the great battle began. Togo's vessels maneuvered with perfect precision and soon had the Russians enveloped by their fire. The scene, which I had the honor of witnessing, was superbly terrible.

"Guns of nearly 50 warships were being fired and frequently a great crash sounded as loud reports followed. For a time the belligerents gave shot for shot and through the conflict the fleets were on the move.

"But the Russians had been driven from their original course, and with a hostile squadron on each side and another ahead of him, Rojstvensky was practically defeated within a few hours. There was no possible direction for him to turn and he had fallen into the trap which had been awaiting him ever since he left Madagascar.

"Hesitation was displayed in the tactics of his fleet, and this proved to be the forerunner of utter confusion.

"The Japanese knew instinctively their enemy was beaten and the concentration of their fire now became absolutely infernal. Every gun was trained upon the Russians, who were caught in a cul de sac.

"Long lines of smoke, like sea-clouds, floated across the water and were lit up by flashes of artillery. When the bombardment reached its zenith every second was marked by cannonading.

"The Russian fleet slowly advanced toward Vladivostok. The Japanese squadron, lying between them and their destination, also steamed slowly northward. The spectacle was grand, awe-inspiring in the extreme, and with every breath I drew I knew it timed the passing of souls from life to death.

"Between 3 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon a Russian cruiser of the Nakhimoff class, and the converted cruiser Kamchatka, founded. Previously their upper works had been shattered into splinters of wood and iron and steel, all being carried away.

"Then the Russian fleet broke into utter disorder. The vessels no longer preserved their formation, but went along on a zigzag course. Some pointed their stems to the east, and others to the west, and at that moment it became evident Rojstvensky was completely defeated.

"The Japanese now advanced to closer quarters; the Russian ships were under a fire rendered all the more terrible by the shortened range. They no longer existed as a fleet, but were severed into a number of detached squadrons co-ordinated in no direction and utterly demoralized.

"Gradually they were pressed towards their enemy's coast of Nagato Province.

"The light lasted until 7 o'clock at night, when the atmosphere became somewhat obscured. At this juncture the Russian fleet attempted to steer to the northwest, and heavy firing continued until sunset. When darkness set in the Russian fleet was still edging toward the north, but the powerful Japanese fleet, in horizontal line, lay across the enemy's bows, an effective barrier linked with guns.

"At 8 p. m. Saturday the Japanese torpedo boats and destroyers went forward. There was no turning back. Like a great cloud of locusts the little craft dashed on. The sea was swept by the pale tracks of innumerable searchlights. The large Japanese warships, which had so well found the range of the Russians in the light of day, covered the destroyers' attack beneath shells from the great cannon.

"The tiny vessels darted forth tooting and sinking the enemy. The Russian fleet continued to respond to the fire and a sea battle took place by night, sweeping searchlights lighting up the decks of the ships, while flashes of guns belittled the darkness. There was not a moment of lull.

"At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the fighting was still fierce.

"No one who did not witness the greatest naval fight since Trafalgar can imagine the scene. A little after 2 o'clock the torpedo boats were let loose again to do their deadly work. There were scores on scores of them. Rojstvensky never dreamed Japan had such a flotilla. Under fire of the Russians, all of whose smaller guns were trained on them, the little craft dashed on their night work, which resulted in sinking the following ships: Alexander III, Orel, Navarin, Orel and three gunboats.

"No rest was allowed the Russians until Sunday dawned. The Japanese fleet came to still closer range, pressing the Russians on to the northwest coast of Nagato.

"All day long the battle raged with unabated fierceness, but the Russians were in no strategic position in which they could offer any effective resistance.

"Here the correspondent's message ends, and the battle was still raging when it was dispatched.

Mr. Francis, who was recently injured in an automobile accident in Cincinnati, received the guests seated in a roller chair, with Mrs. Francis and Mrs. J. D. Perry Francis and Mrs. David H. Mrs. Francis was in a gown of white embroidered tulle and Valenciennes lace and Mrs. Perry Francis wore white lace with forget-me-not blue hat. Mrs. D. R. Francis appeared in white lace over pale pink with small white hat. Under an awning of bright colors, punch and frappe was served from a large silver bowl presented to Mr. and Mrs. Francis by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition officials. The receiving hours were from 4 to 6 and several hundred guests called during those hours. The entire house was thrown open to the guests.

CARRYING EVIDENCE TO THE PRESIDENT

Attorneys on Way to Washington With 2000 Pages of Beef Trust Testimony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Assistant Attorney-General Fagin and District Attorney Morrison left Chicago yesterday for Washington to lay before Attorney-General Moody the records of the two months' investigation by the Federal grand jury into the beef packing industry.

They carried with them records covering 2000 pages of testimony by 300 witnesses and also forms of indictments which Mr. Fagin has drawn up pending final action by the inquisitorial body.

These records will be submitted to President Roosevelt by Attorney-General Moody and they will decide, after consultation with Mr. Fagin and Mr. Morrison, whether the testimony warrants the returning of indictments against the packers for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws.

"We do not intend to act rashly in this matter," said Mr. Fagin yesterday. "It is within the province of the grand jury to vote indictments if it so will, but it is for the department at Washington to say whether the evidence gathered is sufficiently strong to warrant such action."

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 1.—The weather today was ideal for a baseball game, and there was a good-sized crowd out to welcome the Browns home from the disastrous Cleveland trip.

The defeats have apparently not affected the enthusiasm or affection of the fans for their pets, for all the boys were given hospitable receptions their first time at bat.

The ferocious Tigers of Detroit were the Browns' opponents, and McAleer was determined on an exhibition of animal training.

The Detroit Club has been a surprise to many of the wisecracks of baseball. Picked for a lowly position in the League race, it is now fourth, and such a good authority as J. J. Moore estimates it as one of the most formidable competitors in the race.

McAleer laughed heartily when, as he strode across the field, some one in the stands greeted him as the McGraw of the American League. A moment later the decision at Cleveland in the Decoration Day second game he said:

"O'Laughlin's farcical verdict on the Wallace play was ideal for a baseball game. If it had not been a repetition of a similar error on the same player the inning before."

The Browns' manager exhibited a new batting order today. Moran, who has been playing great ball at the second base, has been moved to the position of second base, and Koehler batting fourth.

Barney Pelly was the boxman for St. Louis. The Farmington boy did not accompany the club on the Eastern trip, but was left at home in order to get in good battle for the first Detroit game. Ford pitched for Detroit.

SKIN DISEASES SPEAK FOR THE BLOOD

Skin Diseases speak for the blood and tell of the acid-laden, poisonous condition of that vital fluid, and of its effort to throw off and rid system of the poisons and waste matter that have accumulated in it.

Scema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Boils and diseases of this kind are all caused by a weakened and polluted blood circulation, and though may have lain dormant in the system during the cold weather, at the confession of Spring and Summer, when the blood is reacting and making extra efforts to expel all
morbid and poisonous matter,
they make their appearance.

External remedies cannot cure; they soothe and give temporary relief, but often
clog the pores and glands,
and the poison causing the trouble is thus shut up in the system to break out afresh later on. S. S. S., a purely vegetable blood remedy, cures all skin diseases by going down into the circulation, driving out all poisons and waste matters, strengthening the blood, leaving the skin
soft and smooth, and building up the entire system
by its tonic effect. S. S. S. cures Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and all skin diseases that enter the system
through the pores and glands, as well as those that have their origin in the blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any advice wished, without charge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CINCINNATI, O., June 1.—There was much sorrow among members of the St. Louis team when they arrived here this morning for two games with Cincinnati, over the loss of yesterday's game to Pittsburg.

"Why, when we scored those four runs in the ninth, we were so close to winning," said Manager Burke, "that we were almost sure to win. Then those 'infielders' came along and hit the ball right into the hands of the Cincinnati outfielders. It was a real shame."

President Frank De Haas Robison of the St. Louis Club is expected in the city today or tomorrow. It is rumored he has a deal on for an extra infielder, and that he is eager to get away from the Cardinals.

It is not likely that the deal involves a Cincinnati player, as the local Club hardly give Bridwell for Burke. Harry Arndt was much improved this morning, the swelling on his leg having gone down considerably. Manager Burke said Arndt would be able to resume his place at second tomorrow.

The Cincinnati Club is making an investigation of the affairs in which Otis Clymer, the Pittsburgh outfielder, has been implicated. Evidence has been secured showing that Clymer was a bad actor in the minor leagues, and it is not unlikely that Jack Warner of the Cardinals will be called to contribute a chapter to the story of Clymer's doings, as compiled by the local club.

"De Lacy's French Hair Tonic," the world's renowned remedy that insures NO MORE GRAY HAIRS

REV. CHAS. J. BUDLONG, one of Washington's eminent divines, says: "I began turning very gray at the age of 30 and I was most agreeably surprised to find that after using De Lacy's Hair Tonic a reasonable time every gray hair was restored back to the color of the balance of my hair."

"I used it also for a very bad case of dandruff and hair falling and am more than pleased to say it has effected a most phenomenal and complete cure in my case. I feel that a remedy that has the real merit that I have found De Lacy's Hair Tonic to have, that it is not only a pleasure but a Christian duty for me to publicly endorse it."

C. J. BUDLONG, 10 Villa av., Washington, R. I.

MRS. JOHN CROUCH of 4542 Morgan street, St. Louis, says: "I, like most ladies, have always been a little skeptical about hair preparations, but I must say that I am more than pleased with De Lacy's French Hair Tonic, and have not only used it myself with splendid results but have recommended it to a great many of my lady friends. I can speak from actual use when I say that it does all that is claimed for it. It not only does the work, but leaves the hair in fine, soft, velvety condition and it is a most delightful tonic and dressing. Most respectfully,"

MRS. JOHN CROUCH, 4542 Morgan st.

GHOSTS, SHERIFFS! TOWN IN FLIGHT

Aged Negro Summoned Spirits and Young Man's Lantern Did the Rest.

BROOKLYNITES IN HIDING

All That's Visible of Population Is 22 Men and Women in Jail.

The wickedness of old "Billy" Williams in calling up the spirits in the old cemetery at Brooklyn, an East St. Louis suburb, at 3 a. m. Tuesday, has brought down the deputy sheriffs on that settlement, and 150 negro men and women are hiding in the willows and scattered among the houses of the blacks in East St. Louis, Madison and Venice.

The story of old Billy Williams' wickedness is this: Tuesday, in honor of Decoration Day, the graves in the old cemetery in the heart of Brooklyn were decorated, and many negroes were there to pay their tributes of tears and contrition. Old Billy Williams was among them. All during the day Billy talked of the spirits he could call up and commune with. There were scoffers who said he couldn't do any such thing. Billy issued a def. He was going to call up the spirits in the very graveyard that very night, and anybody who didn't believe he could do it was perfectly welcome to come on and look.

Darkness came and scores of negroes hung about the edges of the cemetery. Midnight passed and there were no spirits in sight; three hours more drifted away and still there were no spirits in sight. Suddenly old Billy, sweeping his expectant gaze through the trees, cried out: "Looker yonder! Looker yonder! It's the spirits come to talk with me!"

Spirits' Arrival.

Off through the shadows was a light, raising, lowering itself by unseen means, beckoning to Billy.

The night was quiet no longer. Yells, screams and prayers broke from scores and as their echoes came rolling back from streets and alleys, the cemetery was a deserted spot. Even old Billy was not there.

A young man rolled around on the ground a few minutes, gasping for his sides, and there was no one to see him lower the lantern which had winked at old Billy and go hurrying away.

The spirits were the subject of much conversation Wednesday, but it was 9 p. m. before the evil results came. Then came Deputy Sheriffs Cashe, Mehling, Schaefer and others, with their pockets bulging with misdemeanor warrants, a dozen men and women were arrested and taken to the Town Hall for safekeeping, while others were brought in. The Town Hall was lighted up, and it proved a candle for moths, for the Brooklynites thought there was a dance and swarmed around it.

Half a dozen other arrests were made before the populace realized what was happening. Then there was an exodus, and the voices of the conviction that old Billy's wickedness had angered the spirits, who inspired the deputy sheriffs below.

Women, men and children fled in all directions—into the swamps and fields, and off to neighboring towns.

The total number of arrests was 22, all of whom were taken to Belleville on a trolley car at 11:30 p. m.

FIND SKELETONS IN INDIAN MOUND

East St. Louis Workmen Uncover Remains of Indians on Exchange Avenue.

Workmen engaged in leveling the old Indian mound at Second street and Exchange avenue, East St. Louis, have unearthed several skeletons, believed to be those of Indians, and a number of pieces of ancient pottery.

Improvements of Exchange avenue necessitate the removal of the mound which has long been a landmark.

When the mound had been dug into towards its center the first skeleton was found. It was in a crumbling condition and fell apart almost at a touch.

Upon finding a second skeleton, John Quinn, a workman, called it John Meginsky, a fellow employee. With a wild whoop Meginsky took to his heels and did not return to work.

Crowds of boys took possession of the skeletons, dividing the bones among them. Then they got quides and went to work digging for more "buried treasure." They found many fragments of pottery.
